Preference for judge or panel

You can have your case heard by:

- A judge; or
- A judge with two non-legal members, known as a 'panel'.

Non-legal members are lay people appointed because of their particular experience in the workplace as either workers or managers. A panel will consist of a judge, a member with worker or union experience, and a member with management experience. Each has an equal say in the decision.

A judge will decide whether your case is heard by a judge or by a panel. When making this decision, the judge will consider whether the case involves the sort of legal or factual problem where the experience of the non-legal members may help the tribunal reach its decision.

Presidential Guidance explains the types of cases where this experience may help.

You have an opportunity to say if you would like your case heard by a judge or a panel. The judge will then consider your preference.

If you express a preference, you will be asked to give reasons.

- 2.14 How do you prefer to have your case heard? ☐ I have no preference
☐ I prefer my case to be heard by a judge. Give your reasons in the box below.
☐ I prefer my case to be heard by a panel including non-legal members. Give your reasons in the box below.

9 Disability

9.1 In the respondent party - are you aware of any physical, mental or learning disability or health conditions which requires support? ☐ Yes ☐ No ☐ I'm not sure yet

If Yes, tell us what this disability or condition is and what support that anyone in the respondent party, including representative and witnesses would need as the claim progresses through the system. Consider any hearings that may take place at tribunal buildings.

We know people with disabilities sometimes need support to access information and use our services. We call this a reasonable adjustment. Some reasonable adjustments need to be agreed by a judge, and you can discuss with the tribunal if your needs change.

Reasonable adjustments can include:

- documents in alternative formats, colours and fonts
- help with communicating, sight, hearing, speaking and interpretation
- access and mobility support if a hearing takes place in person
